ABOUT THE COURSE

The Kenya School of Law is pleased to mount a very practical, hands-on 5-day course on Legislative Drafting. This course seeks to build capacity for drafting and analyzing legislative proposals. It also addresses the question of translating policy into law.

INTENDED PARTICIPANTS

This course is recommended for private and public legal practitioners, public officers involved in drafting laws and regulations for their organizations, policy-makers and analysts, staff in legal and policy departments, those interested in law reform, and those involved in drafting laws and regulations for County Governments, law enforcement officers, NGO'S, amongst others.

FACULTY

The Kenya School of Law has assembled a team of legislative drafting experts led by well-known legislative drafters.

CERTIFICATION

Certificates of participation will be issued at the end of the training.

GOAL OF TRAINING

The Constitution of Kenya 2010 established a new order pursuant to which society must respond by relooking at the existing laws and policies. Some laws are now obsolete; some require reform. Other laws need to be created, especially by County Governments. This course seeks to build capacity in drafting of laws and regulations. It will address the question of designing public policy from which laws and regulations often flow. The course should be especially appealing to those involved in county government law-making processes such as legal consultants, policy-makers, members of the county legislative assemblies, amongst others. Non-lawyers who are involved in policy-making and law reform will also benefit greatly. Lawyers who may get consultancies from County Governments will benefit from this training as they will be empowered. Non-governmental organizations in the justice, human rights, rule of law, and governance segments will be highly enriched in order to advance public interest issues and critique laws for the benefit of the society.
